OUR PROGRAMS

Educando works in partnership with state governments and private companies to achieve scale, sustainability and long-term impact of its three leadership programs for public schools.

LISTO | MÉXICO

LISTO trains and supports principals serving in Mexican public schools. It is a two-year (257 hours) intensive course of study for 50 principals at a time, that combines theory, hands-on practice, and individualized monitoring.

For every participant, LISTO creates a “leadership diagnosis” and measures the transformation of each principal’s leadership style throughout the program, evaluating the prevailing culture at each school in order to create a personalized intervention plan.

LISTO principals attend in-person workshops that provide training in strategic planning, best practices in school management, and transformative leadership. The principals also receive individualized coaching in-person and through an online platform, as they bridge theory and practice, evaluate their progress, and implement strategic plans. Through the platform they can communicate with other LISTO principals and share best practices.
